Coeur d'Alene in the historic and forested panhandle of Idaho; then into Montana, where zircons, topaz, sapphires, rubies, amethysts, garnets and smoky quartz are found.

The city of Butte, once a roaring mining camp and now one of the world's vital copper mining centers, can be a headquarters for your explorations. Rockhounds can get a good briefing here at the Montana State School of Mines, which has an excellent display of more than 10,000 specimens of carefully classified minerals, fossils and rocks.

The deep underground copper mines, partially under the city itself, can be seen on conducted tours every day at 1 p. m., except Sundays. Open pit mining can be watched from the highway.

DeLuxe Rockhounding. It is rockhounding deluxe on south at colorful, exciting Virginia City. This authentically revived ghost town never claimed it had streets paved with gold, but it does have unsurfaced back roads shot with small laparatus and rubies. Natives and visitors alike have been picking them up for generations along Sweetwater Creek and in Ruby Valley. As if to let you know that this is no ordinary thoroughfare, the dirt turns dark crimson when it rains.

At Dillon, where rockhounding and gem hunting are popular activities, you will want to stop for a visit to the new Beaverhead County Museum, a modern log structure that features pioneer displays including giftware of high-walmen, Indian artifacts and one which holds the branding irons of the early-day ranchers.

Across the state line (U.S. 91) in Idaho is another top collectors' area. A 14-mile detour to Killbuck and you are in a happy hunting ground for opals. To the west are weird and fascinating lava beds, extinct craters and cinder cones.

Enthusiasm for this hobby has taken over the younger generation as well as the parents at Soda Springs. Not only has the 4-H group branched into serious rockhounding, but two Pebble Pup clubs have been formed.

There's variety enough in coat silhouettes by American designers this fall. Here are three of the newest, all with the lavish fur trim that is the mark of 1959 autumn fashions. Duvelton coat (left) is cut full and single-breasted with wide shoulder line. It's belted in at the waistline and lavishly trimmed with silver fox. Monotone tweed coat (center) is cut wide and straight. We show it in beige with wide, deep collar of beige beaver. Late day or theater coat (right) is cut of black silk satin with white mink cape collar and is designed to go easily over full-skirted dresses. All designs shown here are by Jack Sarnoff. These are subtle, feminine fashions with a feeling of great luxury.

DOROTHY DIX

Giving Secretary Lift Home Should Not Cause Gossiping

By DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: Do you think it would cause gossip if a man drives his secretary home from work every evening? Her home is several blocks out of his way. They both have good reputations. He is 45, she is 40.—E.M.

Dear P. M. Only people who are actually out to manufacture gossip could make a case out of this. Courtesy to secretaries, even beyond the call of duty, is the order of the day. Good secretaries are essential to the smooth running of any organization; they are scarce and when a man has a good office helper, he does his best to keep her happy. If this includes driving out to her home a few blocks, he should do it. After all, they work in close harmony. If there is mischief afoot, there's plenty of time for it to happen.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was very interested in the letter from a girl who wants dad to give her a nice wedding. She might be interested in my experience. I was married the last of three girls to be married. My wedding was small but wonderful. I bought my white dress, flowers and announced. The folks took care of the cake, food and help for the kitchen and church. Everyone was happy, knowing there was no enormous bill to be met and I can always remember my wedding day with love and thankfulness.—Mrs. R.B.

Send your problem to DOROTHY DIX. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. We will return your letter with our answer. (Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

By WHIT MASTERTON
THE STORY: Cloris Howard, a veterinarian, attached to the border services, believes that the carrier strain of the plague is carried by animals. That is why Colonel Aguilar, of Mexico, must kill a white wolf believed to have been infected by the disease.

CAPTER XVIII
Aguilar realized with a start that darkness had come. Engrossed with his thoughts, he had failed to notice its quiet approach, but now he could barely make the shape of the rock cairn, the bar for the trap he intended to spring. It was time to get ready. He shifted around, trying to find the most comfortable position. He settled for a seat atop the un of gasoline, and fixed his eyes on the mound of rocks, the body beside it, quite inaudible now.

He waited. Minutes passed, pyramided, became a half-hour, three-quarters, finally a complete hour. All about him, Aguilar could hear the chattering stir with life of the nocturnal creatures emerging to hunt for food and, in turn, be hunted. However, there was no sign of the quarry he sought. The second hour began. A chill breeze was sweeping in from the ocean, making him shiver, but he was grateful that there was no fog, which would have made a difficult job well-nigh impossible. Two bad that the moon... What was that?

Aguilar didn't move, except to slide his thumb cautiously along the flashlight to the button. He kept his eyes on the strange white shape which slunk slowly around the cairn in a circle that gradually narrowed. The wolf—if that was what it was—had all the caution of its breed, and was making sure of its ground before returning to the feast. But it lacked the imagination to realize that danger might lie in another direction. Aguilar waited for the moment all hunters know, the instant when the quarry has satisfied itself of its safety and is off-guard. It came, at last. The animal's circuitous approach reached its goal; it stopped beside the cairn. Slowly, Aguilar raised the rifle to his shoulder, holding the flashlight alongside it like a second barrel. He steadied the sights on the white blur, and pushed on the flashlight button.

The beam of light carved a brilliant tunnel through the blackness, falling square upon the animal crouched beside the dead man. The surprise was complete. For just an instant, the creature stood motionless, dazzled by the sudden burst of light. Then his legs tensed under him, ready to carry him away into the night. Before he could move, Aguilar shot him through the head.

Aguilar limped down the bank and approached the cairn cautiously, rifle ready. But no second shot was necessary. The animal lay on its side, as quietly as the dire, fire was a wolf, the largest animal he had ever seen, and his prizzled coat was dingy white with only a few streaks of brown across the chest and around the muzzle. He was old and had been lame. His left rear foot was missing, probably left behind in a trap somewhere. His size and unique color made him pelt a prize worth of the question. Sighing regretfully, Aguilar dragged the gasoline can out of the blind and doused the carcass liberally. He did the same to the dead smuggler but without remorse. The wolf's old eyes had been under him, and he had seen the flames were still burning. A moment later, Mallory rode into the circle of light. "Thanks for putting a candle in the wind," he greeted Aguilar. "I've been hunting for you, Colonel. All

Mrs. K Visited Natl Art Gallery

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nina Khrushchev today visited the National Gallery of Art, gift to the nation of one of America's best-known capitalists. She was obviously delighted at what she saw.

Mrs. Khrushchev, with her daughters Rada and Julia, toured the gallery for an hour and a half. The huge building, filled with some of the world's greatest art and sculpture, was built with $11 million dollars given for that purpose by Andrew Mellon, former secretary of the Treasury and ambassador to Great Britain. Other millionaires have donated works of art to it.

"A fine art collection," Mrs. Khrushchev called it. Many of the works were acquired by Mellon from the collections of Russia's royal family.

Huntington Cairns, secretary of the gallery, and Perry Cott, chief curator, escorted Mrs. Khrushchev and her party, which included her daughters.

To Ask Death in Lover's Slayer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The prosecutor says he now is considering demanding the death penalty for Carole Tregoff, charged with murdering her lover's wife.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred N. White, originally said he would not. Mrs. Tregoff, 41, is accused of the fatal shooting of Barbara Finch, 23.

Whitehead indicated his possible action upon return from Las Vegas, Nev., where he questioned David Williams, 22, Williams told police that Miss Tregoff asked him to introduce her to "two rough guys who will take care of somebody."

The Buckaroos are fierce but the Bobcats have Pierce. See 'em in action Friday night at 8 p. m. in Harmonis Stadium.

These gullies look the same in the dark. "It's just as well you didn't arrive any sooner."

"I heard the shot," Mallory peered at the bonfires. "What'd it turn out to be? A coyote?"

"A white wolf, almost as large as that burro," Aguilar grinned at Mallory's astonished whistle. "Of course, I can't prove it now."

"I've heard the rumors that there was a breed of white wolves down here in Baja but I guess you're the first man to ever nail one of them. Boy, what a museum piece he would have made. Do you think he was the right one?"

"I'd say so. And along that line, I think we're in luck. He was lame and old, which means he must have been a long wolf."

"They topped a mesquite-covered ridge and saw the lights of Soledad a short distance below. 'Peaceful, huh?' Mallory commented. 'Hard to imagine anything ever happening around here.'"

Aguilar was nodding in agreement when a voice shouted out of the darkness. "Halt!" This was followed by the crash of a rifle and the whine of a bullet passing over their heads.

Aguilar was still grumbling about the incident two hours later. "The trigger happy idiot! He could have easily shot off my head."

"Not every day a private gets a shot at a colonel," Mallory agreed, winking at Cloris. "I kind of pity the guy, though, when you got through chewing him out, I don't know about him, but I learned some new cuss words."

Cloris murmured, "I still feel somewhat responsible. But when I phoned La Paz and asked that Soledad be quarantined, I didn't realize they'd send a squad of soldiers to do the job."

"You did the right thing," Aguilar assured her.

Threatens Father of a Student

SEATTLE (AP)—The operator of a small-time suburban military academy, already in trouble on a charge of mistreating a cadet, was accused Thursday of threatening the father of another student with a gun.

Thomas H. Hopkins was arrested on a complaint which said he waved a gun at Richard H. Brattin of Lake Stevens, Wash., Sept. 3 and ordered him off the property of the Hopkins Military Academy near Redmond.

Smith said Brattin had given notice he was withdrawing his son from the school.

Hopkins was charged Monday with third degree assault on allegedly using a judo hold on a 14-year-old cadet and ordering him to only bread and water while being kept under guard for five days.

Smackover Smacks Bobcats 13 to 6

Heavy Visitors Prove to Be Best Mudders

By TEDDY JONES JR.
Hope Star Sports Writer

Smackover smacked the Bobcats to the tune of 13 to 6 in a muddy, slippery, hard fought contest at Hammons Stadium last night.

The muddy field, the 20 pound weight advantage of the Bucks and a quarterback named Sam Barker, who could run through a broken field in the mud, all contributed immeasurably to the Bobcats' downfall in their home opener and first AAA conference game of the year.

The sloppy footing and slick ball led to costly fumbles by both sides and turned the battle into a duel between QBs and FBs with QB Barker and FB Joe Black of the Bucks shading the Bobcats' two some QB Bryon Smiley and FB Terry Don Thurman.

Barker of Smackover scored in the first and third quarters on runs of 20 and 12 yards and Smiley scored for Hope four minutes deep in the first quarter on a sweep around his own left end good for 26 yards and the games first TD.

Rain which fell intermittently all Friday and during the game, along with the heavy downpour from four in the afternoon to game time, forewarned of trouble for Coach John Pierce's light speedy Cats who have relied on the pursuit of their forward wall, and the speed of backs King, Turner and Duke and the passing of Smiley, in their first two games. Smiley threw only 4 passes and completed one to the left flat to King good for 15 yards. QB Barker of Smackover passed only once during the game and it fell incomplete.

Smackover outgained the Cats making 13 first downs to 9 for Hope and piled up 244 yards rushing and passing for the Cats.

Early in the game Hope picked up their first break when Johnny Snell recovered a Buck fumble on Smackover's 40 yard line. Following two first downs, Duke's try for PAT was low and wide to the right.

Taking the ball after the kickoff on their 26 yard line the Bucks began a 75 yard TD drive of their own.

Led by big 185 pound Fullback Black, who ripped over the middle of the Cat line all night, and HB Bird the Bucks moved for three first downs to put the ball on the Hope 27 where they lost the ball on downs.

Bird scooted for 20 yards to the Cat 20 and on the next play, with 30 seconds remaining in the quarter, Barker scampered 20 yards around his own right end to put the Bucks on even terms with the Cats. Try for PAT was wide and high making the score 6-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Neither team scored in the second period. It was mostly a "give and take" affair of bruising full back plunges up the middle, swapping fumbles, and playing for the breaks. The Bucks marched once to the Hope 27 where they lost the ball on downs.

Halftime score remained at 6-6. Early in the third quarter Smackover got the break that set up their final touchdown, and proved to be the margin of victory when they recovered Bobcat fumble on Hope's own 32 yard line.

On the second play after gaining possession of the ball Barker again proved his adeptness at running in the mud and in a broken field by rambling behind good interference from the Cat 26 to the 12 yard line. On the next play the shifty Buck body, Under his gray slacks he

QB swept right end and went 12 yards to pay dirt for the second Smackover TD. Fullback Joe Black crashed the line to make the PAT and put Smackover ahead to stay 13 to 6.

Neither team could move during the remainder of the 3rd period. In the final quarter Smackover moved to Hope's 21 where they lost the ball on a fumble. The Cats moved for sizeable gains but were set back by two 15 yard penalties to their own 15 yard line where King was forced to punt out of danger.

The Bucks returned King's punt to their own 49 yard line and proceeded to drive again to Hope's 25 where Terry Don Thurman recovered a Buck fumble on the Cats 25 yard line.

Terry Don Thurman, Hope's big fullback, and best ground gainer for the Cat was injured, receiving a cut over his eye, and removing from the game in the last minute. The injury was reported to be not serious.

Barker intercepted a Smiley pass on his own 40 to stop for good any Hope threat of scoring and then ran the clock out to end the game.

Final score: Smackover 13, Hope 6.

A sizeable delegation of Smackover fans along with band which performed at half time attended. Rain cut down on the expected large turnout.

The Bucks and the Bobcats both entered the game with 1-1 records. Smackover now leads District AAA holding wins over Fairview of Camden and Hope. Smackover was polled as the likely choice to win the conference crown prior to the season's start and thus far seem to be running true to form.

Odd Criminal May Have Had Accomplice
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Who was the odd little criminal who made a weird effort Wednesday to pull off a bank robbery in gang style?

Apparently the accomplice was a woman, but her "mousy blond" hair looked suspiciously like a wig. She was clad in a blue garter belt and black shoes. She carried a hat box and a red bag which contained a small automatic pistol. When last seen, she was driving a rented car toward the branch bank where the robbery was supposed to happen.

The little man wore a blonde wig too, over his balding head. The bullet with which he finished his career—when he finished—was closing in with guns and tear gas—knocked the wig askew. When they laid him on the table at the morgue, they found he measured only 5 feet 4, and there were elevator shoes on his feet.

He had shaved the hair off his forehead. Under his gray slacks he wore red trunks.

The fingerprints told his story. He was William Arney, 30, last known address Indianapolis, who had been convicted of burglary, assault to kill and robbery in several cities.

They found a sneaky paper containing a plan of action, aimed at a Lorain Avenue branch of the Cleveland Trust Co.

The plan began with the woman's help. The pair got into the home of Herbert Fox, 51, manager of the Lorain Ave. branch. They tied up his wife and two daughters, who later gave the only available description of the woman. But where a gang would have left one or two men to guard the family, they left only a fake "bomb" ticking away.

The little man made Fox drive to the bank, where they were to wait until a time lock opened the vault. The woman, driving the rented car, followed them, but was not seen again.

At the bank the little man tried a trick that usually takes more than one gunman. He kept holding bank employees as hostages when they reported for work.

More Talks in River Barge Labor Dispute
ST. LOUIS (AP)—More talks were being held today between the Masters, Mates and Pilots Union and four barge lines in a labor dispute that has halted most traffic on the nation's rivers.

Federal Conciliator E. J. Barry said the union yesterday submitted a revised economic proposals, he didn't elaborate.

It was the first meeting in a month—since the National Maritime Union and the firms broke off negotiations.

Last Member of Geronimo Gang Dies
MESCALERO, N. M. (AP)—Aged Jasper Kanseah, last known member of Geronimos Apache band, died Wednesday.

Kanseah, whose parents were with Geronimo when the noted Sioux chieftain surrendered, died Wednesday, a week after his wife died. Officials of the Mescalero Agency said he was born in 1868.

Blames Deaths on Shortage of Nurses
NEW YORK (AP)—The director of children's care at Kings County Hospital says at least two infants—and probably more—have died there because of a shortage of nurses.

Dr. Richard Day made the statement Thursday at a city hearing on proposed salary increases for nurses.

Dr. Morris A. Jacobs, city commissioner of hospitals, ordered an immediate investigation.

City nurses now earn from $3,750 to $4,200 a year. They are asked $4,500 to $5,000.

Mr. K Makes Shambles of Places Visited

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev has made a shambles of a supermarket, a cornfield, and stuffed-shirt diplomacy. But now the time has come to see whether he has more than a bull in a china shop.

His American caravan, more like a mardi gras than a sight-seeing expedition, included hat-swapping, hot dogs, insults, temper-tantrums, baby-photos, pig-pating, turkey tickling, and a fling at the Can-Can.

He has talked peace and he has talked big. But so far it has been all talk and all vague. Now he has to get down to cases with President Eisenhower. By Sunday, when their meeting breaks up, there should be answers to two questions:

Whether he came just for the ride and the publicity; or, whether he means business, wants peace, and is willing to take steps to bring it about.

Even if the talks are only a small success Khrushchev will look like a great man into the world, since he was 'the one who initiated all this and went to a lot of trouble, coming over and poking around, to find a settlement.

He has done his best to create that picture of himself already. If the talks finish in flat, dead-end failure he can blame it on this country and still look good to a lot of people. He can point to his efforts. But if there is failure, and he keeps on talking, he runs a danger:

He may wind up looking like an international windbag, which is the large size. He and Eisenhower, as they sit down together, have one thing in common: A kind of inborn optimism that, with the proper effort and plenty of it, the world can be made wonderful. Trouble is, they haven't agreed on how to do it.

They do agree nuclear war is unthinkable—although they keep on thinking about it—but they suffered from a bafflement on how to prevent it.

They have a lot of unfinished business to discuss: Disarmament, Berlin, nuclear tests, Laos, the future of Germany, American-Soviet travel, exchange between the two countries, and any other problems they can think of.

One has a time finding any one who will reach any flat or final agreement. Maybe the most to expect is that they will make a start, at least, toward some future settlement.

Perhaps just realization by both of them that Americans and Soviets don't want to hate each other will be start enough for the two men to go on to further and more fruitful meetings.

Traditional diplomats from years have been long on palaver and short on performance, must have horrified by Khrushchev's revolutionary approach to foreign relations.

If his mission is a success, after the kind of performance he may feel they had a disturbed childhood because they didn't work in a coal mine or were reared because they went to college.

Khrushchev, despite all his shenanigans, seems to have created very little ill will in America. If he made any enemies on this trip they were probably the worlds high-priced tailors.

If this trip proves successful, since he violated all the rules by wearing business clothes to a formal White House dinner in his honor, he may have done damage to sales of full dress suits and tuxedos.

NEW YORK CROSSROADS OF PLEASURE BOATING
By WM. T. McKEOWN
Editor, Popular Boating
(Distributed by NEA Service)

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The crossroads of the pleasure-boating world is located 15 miles from the Atlantic Ocean. Its official address is West 79th Street and North River, New York.

The Canary Islands and the Azores, Honolulu and Tahiti see their share of small-boat adventurers. But the goal is invariably to visit the island of Manhattan, and this means (yup up at the New York City Park Department's Municipal Boat Basin on a stretch of the Hudson called the North River.

Every summer and fall sees pleasure-boat sailors coming up or down the Hudson to 70th Street. Last year Eddie Collins, manager of the facility, greeted the crew of the first outboard to cross the Atlantic.

Collins saw the arrival of Todd Crawford and his family, who traveled 4,500 miles in a 16-foot outboard runabout from South Dakota.

He noted the departure last spring of John Edgar Hogg in a 19-foot outboard cruiser. Hogg set out to repeat a crossing of the continent by boat which he had managed under outboard power 34 years ago. Now 67, he again successfully completed his 5,200-mile journey back to the Pacific coast.

If there is a trend among seafaring pioneers, reports Collins, it is to put new trust in engines, and use power for long voyages as well as sail.

A few years ago Ann Davidson arrived at 9th Street after crossing the Atlantic alone under sail. This summer she passed through again, this time on her way from Miami to Chicago. She was to return via New Orleans, again alone but this time by outboard cruiser.

Yachts as big as 145 feet have tied up at 79th Street. Right now the major traffic is 30 and 40-footers migrating through on their way south.

Dockside slips and river moorings are available for 75 regulars and transients. Full marina services are offered. Unlike many other publicized docking facilities, here the boatman can get gas or diesel fuel, ice water and launch service at any hour.

Though the visitor may be heard to say, "It's great to cruise to but I wouldn't want to permanently move here," this small boat basin, for the voyager from other continents and the local boatman alike, has an appeal all of its own.

Suspended Students Are Reinstated
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Little Rock School Board has reinstated 10 white pupils suspended last Friday after a mild demonstration over expanded integration at Central High School.

The pupils and some of their parents met with the board Thursday.

Three other suspended pupils did not attend the hearing and were sent word that they were withdrawing from school. All 13 were involved in the demonstration.

A few white pupils walked out of Central and others did not enter the building after three Negroes were assigned there. Two Negroes have attended Central since the term opened Aug. 12.

Cross Burning Frightens Couple
cross burning in their front yard apparently frightened a white married couple into leaving Bradley County four days after the wife was arrested in the company of a Negro.

Sheriff Paul Jones said the woman and the Negro were arrested when found together in a car parked in an isolated area. Deputy Leroy Pippenger said he escorted Mr. and Mrs. Paul Baxter, both about 30, and their infant child to the Polk County line at their request Thursday.

Mrs. Baxter was fined $15 Monday for possessing whiskey in a dry county. The Negro, Elbert Smart, was fined $40 for possessing whiskey and being intoxicated.

Wyoming Governor Reported Better
CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Gov. Joe Hickey's condition was described as excellent today after a two-hour operation on Thursday for removal of a severely inflamed gall bladder.

Robber Couldn't Find Parking Place
WOODBURGE, N.J. (AP)—There was a perfectly logical reason why Joseph Freda didn't rob anybody in Perth Amboy, N.J., after he admitted he had parked in 19 holdups around here.

"Didn't find any place to park," he told police Thursday, as they booked him for armed robbery.

News Briefs
VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Skirmishes flared in the provinces of Vientiane and Luang Prabang in the last few days. Acting Foreign Minister Sisouk Na Champasak reported today.

The fighting, he told at a news conference, is part of a general swing in rebel activity from the North Viet Nam border area to the interior.

MANILA (AP)—The United States has indicated willingness to go along with a Philippine demand for a drastic cutback in the 99-year leases on U. S. military bases here, well-informed sources said today. They did not say how much shorter the leases would be. The Philippines has been plugging for 25-year terms renewable every five years.

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has proclaimed the biggest threat to his galloping revolution — a dollar shortage.

He moved to clamp stiff controls on all foreign exchange dealings and placed nearly prohibitive duties on imports.

New tariffs ranging from 30 to 100 per cent will be applied on value at the port of embarkation. They will take effect three days after they are published in the governments official gazette.

White Sox Have No Tickets Left
CHICAGO (AP)—If you're thinking of applying to the White Sox for tickets to the Chicago games in the World Series, forget it. There aren't any left.

The Chicago club management said Wednesday its full allotment of seats for the Comiskey Park games was sold to confident fans who applied long before the Sox opened the pennant Tuesday night.

Castro's Men to Be Treated in U. S.
BOSTON (AP)—Eleven veterans of Fidel Castros Cuban work to begin treatment at the Veterans Administration Hospital at West Roxbury. The hospital and the men all paraplegics, are being treated through State Department arrangements and the project will cost the VA nothing.

GOOD MUSIC

... the common language of all people. It takes skilled musicians to blend an orchestra into the perfect ensemble... to make good music. Just as surely as it requires more discords than concords to make good music, so does it take more disappointment, sorrow and trouble to sweeten up a life... to make a good Christian. The orchestra spends a lot of time just tuning up. And so does a life if it is to count for God. One must go to Sunday School, attend church and learn of Him, if his music, his life is to be worthy to be used by God to warm the hearts of men. They learn well and play true.
